Redfield Clinic News

Voting: Please remember to vote on or before Tuesday November 3rd, 2026. As most of us know well many of our fellow Americans served our country and some made the ultimate sacrifice so we can have the right to vote. Let's honor their sacrifice by voting. More information about voting, like where to vote and identification needed to vote, is available at your county election office or at the Iowa Secretary of State office at voterready.iowa.gov

Some say voting makes no difference. But that is not true. The gold medal winning wheel chair basketball player, Iowa State representative Josh Turek, who is running for the US Senate from Iowa, won his first election in Council Bluffs by just 6 votes. And research shows that voting is good for your health, even if your candidate does not win.

Flu vaccinations: It is not too late to get you Influenza immunization or your COVID booster. Scientific research shows that getting Flu shots regularly decrease your chances of dying from heart disease or developing Alzheimer's disease. These vaccinations are available at your clinic or pharmacy. All of us at the Redfield Clinic get our Flu shots annually because we don't want to get the Flu or give it to others. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Cindy Lyons joins Redfield Clinic staff: Retired Redfield postal worker Cindy Lyons is now working as part time receptionist at our clinic. Cindy also serves our community as a volunteer for the Senior Health Insurance Information Program (SHIIP). This program is sponsored by the Iowa State Insurance Department to provide free, objective information to Medicare patients about the many Medicare insurance plans.

Redfield Community Honors

Honored at the October Community Meal · October 5, 2026

Dustin & Cristin Lantz Receive the Key to the City

On Monday, October 5, 2026, during the Community Meal at the Legion Hall, Mayor Michael Wiley and City Council member Luke Paardekooper presented Dustin and Cristin Lantz with the Key to the City, our community's highest civic honor.

The recognition celebrates their extraordinary service, leadership, and devotion to Redfield, along with the enduring contributions they have made across years of commitment to this community.

If you have spent any time in Redfield, you know Dustin and Cristin. Their service, their leadership, and their quiet, steady generosity have shaped this community for years. The Key to the City is more than a plaque. It is Redfield itself saying thank you.

Please join the Redfield Review in congratulating Dustin and Cristin Lantz.

Thank you both, for everything you have given, and continue to give, to the city of Redfield.

Dustin and Cristin Lantz accept the Key to the City from Mayor Michael Wiley and City Council member Luke Paardekooper.

THE REDFIELD DEPOT ON THE RACCOON RIVER VALLEY TRAIL

Weather wise it almost seemed like the best was saved for last this summer - there were several week-ends of beautiful fall weather in October! That made it particularly nice that the bridge construction in Adel was finished earlier than scheduled. We began to see more bicycles parked outside the Legion Hall for Saturday morning breakfasts - back on its every Saturday morning schedule again! This is our last month to have the depot open with volunteers to provide information, snacks and drinks - and this year new Redfield trail t-shirts. The trail itself is never closed for walking and non-motorized vehicles year-round.

Thank-you to those of you volunteers who helped staff the depot - compliments abound from trail users as they have interacted with you! Also, thanks to our volunteer cookie bakers who made it possible to offer the famous Redfield Depot homemade cookies for 50cents each! This year we started giving each person who signed in with their name and home location a free cookie. Many fun and interesting conversations emanate from that process and we compile the home-town information so as to have an idea where our trail users come from!

And never too often can we mention the foresight of the Dallas County Conservation Board and thank them in the way they oversee and maintain the RRVT including the depot here in Redfield. Following is a quote from Curt Cable, Director, in their current quarterly newsletter,

"Dallas County continues to grow and change, and the decisions we make now will shape the parks, trails, natural areas and recreational opportunities available for decades to come.
The Raccoon River Valley Trail is a good reminder that long term investments can shape a community for generations. What began as a vision decades ago is now one of Dallas County's most valued recreational assets. The decisions we make today should be approached with that same long-term perspective."

Garden Tasks for November

Submitted by Carolyn Wilson

Perennials

- It is not necessary to cut off the perennial garden after the first freeze of the season. The leaves, dried flowers, stems and seed heads of many perennials provide interest during the winter months. The plant materials also provide a layer of protection for the crown and root system of the perennial. The stems also collect fallen leaves which add more protection. Removing the plant material in the spring will provide benefits for the plant as well as insects and wildlife, including birds. Perennials with disease or insect issues should have the stems and leaves removed from the area, as well as those that aggressively seed.

Vegetable Garden

- Fall cleanup is advised in the vegetable garden. Removing leaves, stems and fruit will remove any serious diseases or pest issues that can overwinter on the plant. This can help reduce the severity of disease and insects in the coming year. Compost piles must reach 140 degrees F to kill pathogens. Most home compost piles do not reach that temperature so alternate means of disposal are recommended.
- Fall is a good time to add amendments to the soil such as leaves, compost, well-rotted manure and disease-free garden wastes. The amendments add organic matter and benefit the soil microorganisms and the overall soil health. A fall tilled garden will warm more quickly in the spring, allowing earlier planting of those cool season crops. This is also a good time to test the soil, so you know what is needed for the coming year.
- Keep track of where plants were located in the garden and rotate each year to minimize disease problems. A minimum of a 3-year rotation, if you have the space, if best.
- There are still some beautiful annuals blooming. You can take cuttings from those plants and take them in to be propagated for next year.

Trees and Shrubs

- Do not prune woody trees and shrubs in the fall. Pruning encourages growth and any new growth would be too tender to withstand the winter.
- Continue to water young trees and shrubs

Lawn

- Early November is a good time to fertilize the lawn, as it promotes root growth which will give an earlier green lawn in the spring. It is also the best time for broadleaf weed control using herbicides.

Unfinished Business
Strategic Plan The following goals were proposed as updates to our strategic plan:
Discover Your Roots: Genealogy and Local History -Residents and visitors will have the resources they need to connect the past with the present through their family histories and to understand the history and traditions of the community.
Express Creativity: Create and Share Content: Residents will have the services and support they need to express themselves by creating original print, video, audio or visual content in a real-world or online environment.
Know Your Community: Community Resources and Services: Residents will have a central source for information about the wide variety of programs, services and activities provided by community agencies and organizations.
Visit a Comfortable Place: Physical and Virtual Spaces: Residents will have safe and welcoming physical places to meet and interact with others or to sit quietly and read and will have open and accessible virtual spaces that support social networking.
Little Free Library – Decided to stand with last month's decision.
PTO – The city doesn't have policy so are waiting on that.
Finance Policy- Moved by Cox and second by Wilson to Table. Tabled.

New Business
Library board meeting day- a change to Thursday was suggested, but discussion determined it had no benefit to change.
Library Hours for fall and winter – Discussed with no change.
Agenda Format – no change
Distribution of Board Packets – the current procedure gives board members time to review.
Storybook Walk – City Council wants periodically updated. If library will prepare, Lauren will put out.
